Milwaukee County Workers Continue To Show They Are The Best

Three Milwaukee County employees participated in a “roadeo” which was held in Wisconsin Dells on Tuesday. Fifty-eight workers from around the state took place in the roadeo, in which they competed by driving a course, taking a CDL test and performing a pre-trip inspection on their vehicle. The roadeo was sponsored by Aegis Corp through Wisconsin County Mutual Association.

Nick Gnas, an airport maintenance worker for Milwaukee County, took first place, and will participate in the roadeo in Green Bay on September 22, as part of “Team Public Works for the State.” Clyde Taylor, Milwaukee County Highway Maintenance Worker I, also participated, taking third. Gary Piontek also participated in the Roadeo on Tuesday.

“Even though Scott Walker has put county workers through a gamut of adverse situations, including furloughs and lay offs, Milwaukee County workers continue to show their true mettle,” said Chris Liebenthal, Chair of Milwaukee County First. “It is good to see that even though the county executive has tried to destroy Milwaukee County, the workers still take pride in the work they do and show why our airport is one of the best in the country and why our highways are so well plowed in the winter and maintained in the summer.”

“On behalf of the citizens of Milwaukee County, I thank all of the county workers for their dedication in these trying times, and congratulate them on a job well done,” continued Liebenthal. “We wish Nick the best of luck in Green Bay and are proud to have him represent his fellow workers, as well as all of Milwaukee County, as being the best.”
